Story arc

Bo is a Succubus who grew up as the child of a human couple, unaware of her non-human nature and of the Fae world she came from. She began to feel "different" when she entered puberty and didn't know she was not normal until she accidentally killed her high school boyfriend by draining his Chi during her first sexual activity. When she turned to her conservative and religious parents for comfort and support they informed Bo that she had been adopted, and called her "deviant" and a "monster." Not knowing what she was and what she had done, Bo hated herself and ran away from home; leaving behind her previous life for one without family or friends, moving from place to place, and assuming a new identity whenever she killed again. She lived on the run for ten years until she was discovered by the Fae and finally found out what she was.

In the first episode of the series, It's a Fae, Fae, Fae, Fae World, Bo saves a young human woman, Kenzi, from a rapist who had surreptitiously drugged her with a "roofie" in her drink. The two quickly become friends and Kenzi comes up with the idea that they should team up to create a Fae/Human private investigation agency. Confronted by the Fae leaders of the local territory with a demand for her to choose a clan – either Light Fae or Dark Fae – Bo declares herself neutral, deciding instead to side with humans after Kenzi risked her life to find out where Bo had been taken by force and what they were doing to her. Most of the Fae considered Bo an unknown entity that should either be eliminated as a risk to their secret existence or exploited for their benefit.

Throughout the season, Bo learns more about the Fae world and herself while she searches for information about her origins. Along the way, Bo develops romantic relationships with both Dyson, a Light Fae wolf shapeshifter and police detective; and Lauren, a human doctor and scientist, and pledged servant of The Ash, leader of the Light Fae.
